DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 45-88 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nishihara JP 2002275001. Nishihara discloses a device and method for preventing humoral ooze comprising a syringe 1, inserting tube 4,7, covering member 5, and a jelly substance 8. Nishihara '001 does not disclose a body fluid sealing member and cotton substance as claimed. Nishihara JP 2003111830 discloses a sealing device for preventing the leakage of rectal waste from the anus due to the relaxation of the sphincter caused by death. One having ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated by the teaching of Nishihara '830 to provide the invention of Nishihara '001 with a sealing device for preventing leakage of rectal waste. The sealing device of Nishihara '830 comprises a molding 2 of highly water-absorbing fibers, a water-soluble sheet 3 covering the outer periphery of the molding 2, and a lubricant 4 covering the water-soluble sheet 3.

Nishihara '001/'830 does not disclose a cotton substance. Kitajima JP 8133901 teaches a method of preventing leakage involving inserting a jelly into the inner part of the nasal cavity and ears and plugging the outer part of the cavities with medical cotton.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to provide the invention of Kitajima with a cotton substance. Doing so would provide a means for plugging the cavity to assist with preventing leakage of bleeding and offensive odor to the outside.

Conclusion

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Adkins USPN 7111371 is cited to show an apparatus for preventing remains fluid leakage.
